

PFAS Scientific Advisory Panel

Information for Report 2, An assessment of the impact of PFAS exposure on health

Summary of conditions raised by Islanders

A summary of conditions raised by Islander testimonies in November and December 2023 are listed below. Rare conditions and specific details are not listed to avoid people being personally identifiable. These were given in public and private meetings and in written submissions.

The Panel will look at:

- a range of cancers including skin, blood, mouth, kidney, bowel, urethral, breast, endometrial, prostate cancers,
- high cholesterol,
- fertility,
- inflammation of the stomach and gut,
- impacts on children,
- and impacts on mental health,
- Lupus and systemic lupus erythematosus (SLE)

The Panel will look specifically for any link to PFAS in the scientific literature for these conditions as part of their wider evidence review for report 2.
