FINANCIAL SERVICES OMBUDSMAN (EXEMPT BUSINESS) (JERSEY) ORDER 201-

Explanatory Note

This Order exempts certain business from being relevant financial services business for the purpose of the Financial Services Ombudsman (Jersey) Law 201[-].

Article 1 defines the Financial Services Ombudsman (Jersey) Law 201[-] as the “Law”. It also relies on the definition of “main business” in Article 9(2) of the Law, which allows for some business to be classed as ancillary in relation to other business that is classed as main.

Article 2 exempts all business except those described in any one or more of the sub-paragraphs of paragraph (2). Sub-paragraphs (a) to (i) of paragraph (2) mainly relate to business that cannot be carried on without registration with, or other permission from, the Jersey Financial Services Commission (“JFSC”) under the Financial Services (Jersey) Law 1998, the Banking Business (Jersey) Law 1991, the Collective Investment Funds (Jersey) Law 1988 and the Insurance Business (Jersey) Law 1996.

Sub-paragraph (a) means that deposit-taking business is not exempt if it must be registered under the Banking Business (Jersey) Law 1991. Sub-paragraph (b) means that deposit-taking business by the Channel Islands Co-operative Society Limited and Community Savings & Credit Limited is not exempt, even though they are exempt from registration with JFSC. Similarly, although industrial and provident societies do not need to register with JFSC to accept sums in the form of withdrawable share capital, sub-paragraph (b) means that that activity is not exempt for the purposes of the Ombudsman scheme.

Sub-paragraph (c) means that money service business is not exempt if it must be registered under the Financial Services (Jersey) Law 1998. Sub-paragraph (d) means that other money service business is not exempt, if the reason that it does not require registration with JFSC is the operation of Article 4 or 5 of the Financial Services (Money Service Business (Exemptions)) (Jersey) Order 2007 (which relate to certain low turnover businesses and registered deposit-taking businesses).

Sub-paragraph (e) means that the business of a functionary, in relation to a recognized fund, is not exempt (but other business in relation to collective investment funds and alternative investment funds is exempt unless caught by any of the other sub-paragraphs).

Sub-paragraph (f) means that general insurance mediation business is not exempt if it must be registered under the Financial Services (Jersey) Law 1998. Sub-paragraphs (g) and (h) mean that insurance business is not exempt if it must be covered by a permit under the Insurance Business (Jersey) Law 1996, or if no permit is required because the insurance business is carried on under authority of another enactment (such as the Jersey Mutual Fire Insurance Society Incorporated (Alteration of Names and Rules) Law 1952).

Sub-paragraph (i) means that investment business is not exempt if it must be registered under the Financial Services (Jersey) Law 1998.

Sub-paragraph (j) means that relevant pension business is not exempt, unless exempted by Article 3, which deals with occupational pensions (or by Article 6).

Sub-paragraph (k) means that relevant credit business is not exempt, unless exempted by Article 4, which deals with store credit, or by Article 5, which deals with debt advice (or by Article 6).

Sub-paragraph (l) means that relevant ancillary business is exempt, but only if the main business is itself exempt, or if the ancillary business is exempted by Article 6, which deals with brokerage that is not the principal business of the person carrying it on (see below).

There are some types of business that appear in Article 9(1) of the Law, but do not appear in Article 2 of this Order in their own right, and are therefore exempt unless they also fall under one of the other descriptions in this Article in another capacity. They are trust company business under the Financial Services (Jersey) Law 1998 (but for example such business might not be exempt if it relates to pensions); the business of an AIF, of an AIFM or of a service provider under the Alternative Investment Funds (Jersey) Regulations 2012; business falling within paragraph 7 of Part B of Schedule 2 to the Proceeds of Crime (Jersey) Law 1999, for which registration is required under Article 10 of the Proceeds of Crime (Supervisory Bodies) (Jersey) Law 2008 (but for example such business might not be exempt if it relates to credit); and other forms of business that are exempted from requirements for registration or other permission from JFSC.

Article 3 exempts relevant pension business carried on by employers in relation to their occupational pension schemes, where the employer's principal business is not financial services. So if the employer relies on an external financial service provider for some or all aspects of the scheme, only the employer's business is exempt and not the financial service provider's (but the employee would only be an eligible complainant if they have the required relationship with the financial service provider, under Article 8(6) of the Law, taking account of the guidelines under that Article). The business will still not be exempt if it also falls under one of the other descriptions in Article 2(a) to (i) in another capacity.

Article 4 exempts relevant credit business carried on by those selling goods or supplying services (other than financial services), where the business mainly comprises the provision of credit by the seller or supplier to the customer to facilitate the sale or supply, and the provision of that credit does not require registration under the Proceeds of Crime (Supervisory Bodies) (Jersey) Law 2008. Again such business will not be exempt if it also falls under one of the other descriptions in Article 2(a) to (i) in another capacity.

Article 5 exempts relevant credit business that is merely debt-counselling (defined by Schedule 4 to the Law as the giving of advice to debtors about the liquidation of debts due under credit agreements) or debt-adjusting. Any debt-adjusting must only involve “negotiating with the creditor, on behalf of the debtor, terms for the discharge of a debt” (as described in paragraph 5(a) of that Schedule), or similar activity, and must not involve taking over the debtor’s obligation to discharge the debt. In addition, the advice or negotiation must not be connected with provision of credit, or brokerage of credit, by the person doing the advising or negotiating. Lastly the service must be provided without charge (and without deriving an income from it), or by a charity, or as an incidental business by a person whose principal business is not financial services in the broader meaning of Article 9(1) of the Law (sub-paragraphs (a) to (e), (h) and (i), which includes relevant credit business). Again such business will not be exempt if it also falls under one of the other descriptions in Article 2(a) to (i) in another capacity.

Article 6 exempts relevant ancillary business if it is brokerage of financial services provided by others, and is carried on incidentally by a person who is not principally a financial service provider. Again such business will not be exempt if it also falls under one of the other descriptions in Article 2(a) to (i) in another capacity (such as registered general insurance mediation business). This exemption also only applies to the business of the person acting as the broker, not the business to which introductions are made. So if a shop selling goods refers buyers to a financial service provider for credit, or an employer refers employees to a financial service provider for a pension or other financial service, then that financial service provider’s business will not be exempt as such, but the shop’s or employer’s business in making the referral will be exempt (as long as it is incidental to their principal business).

Article 7 names the Order and would bring it into force on the commencement of Article 9 of the Law.
