Hi John,

Thank you for your prompt response.

Lyndsay and I had a meeting with Andium last week (and tour of properties). Lyndsay also had a shareholders meeting with them yesterday. It is important that we meet with you ASAP.

Friday afternoon would be very helpful. Could something be arranged for 2.30 / 3pm please?

Thank you,

Susie

I'm sorry that you couldn't meet with Lyndsay and I today for discussion on an important matter. As you are aware, I am on leave from [REDACTED] and this is a matter of some urgency. Your suggestion of a very brief (10 minutes) meet before the States sitting on Tuesday is a start but doubt it will be sufficient.

Hi John

Hope you're well.

I hear you have expressed a view that the States office move should be to Ann Court - with a base there instead of housing.

Is there a good time to call you to get a bit more information about this?

Hi John

Hope you're well.

I hear you have expressed a view that the States office move should be to Ann Court - with a base there instead of housing.

Is there a good time to call you to get a bit more information about this?

Thanks

Dear John - Bailiwick will tomorrow run a story on Ann Court. They have comment from Andium which we are checking, and they have asked for comment from us, specifically whether there are plans to delay and whether alternative uses are being considered.

Until you have spoken to Sam tomorrow I am unsure what we confirm, other than these matters are being reviewed as part of wider considerations around how best to rejuvenate St Helier, improve public services, and deliver housing.

As discussed, I will also arrange in consultation with officers some form of email meeting for RSG members, and exchange between you and TRM, to formally consider and determine a course of action. I also think you should inform Ministers of the status.

Finally, we also need to think about the Assembly next week, specifically, questions for Sam, and Kevin has questions without notice.

For completeness, attached are the original decisions. I will also check the Island Plan and any other assembly decisions relating to the site.

Paul

John - does this work as a comment? :

"Ann Court is a major development, and the Chief Minister wants to ensure it forms part of a coherent approach to the redevelopment of our town, including better housing and investment in public service delivery and amenities, including Fort Regent and the States' office strategy. These matters are being reviewed."

Dear John - Bailiwick will tomorrow run a story on Ann Court. They have comment from Andium which we are checking, and they have asked for comment from us, specifically whether there are plans to delay and whether alternative uses are being considered.

Until you have spoken to Sam tomorrow I am unsure what we confirm, other than these matters are being reviewed as part of wider considerations around how best to rejuvenate St Helier, improve public services, and deliver housing.

As discussed, I will also arrange in consultation with officers some form of email meeting for RSG members, and exchange between you and TRM, to formally consider and determine a course of action. I also think you should inform Ministers of the status.

Finally, we also need to think about the Assembly next week, specifically, questions for Sam, and Kevin has questions without notice.

For completeness, attached are the original decisions. I will also check the Island Plan and any other assembly decisions relating to the site.
Paul

We've been told by Andium that 6.5million has been spent on the Ann Court project so far, and that contracts will be signed with Camerona this week. Please can the Chief Minister confirm whether there are any plans to delay and/or halt this process altogether? Please confirm whether the site is being considered for any alternative use and, if so, state what this is (specifically, we would like to know whether it is intended for use as a new States headquarters site).

We have comments from Andium and will be running them tomorrow, so will require any input from the Chief Minister/States by the end of the day today.

Thanks in advance for your help, all best,

This doesn't quite fit the question asked - please could you confirm whether Andium will be asked to halt their plans in any way? Specifically, will the Chief Minister/States be preventing Andium from signing their contract with the builders this week? Would be grateful if you could let me know asap - thank you.

John and John,

The current Andium Ann Court site and proposed re-development is a classic social housing site. It makes no sense to me to suddenly grab it and build a flag ship States Office complex. Please do something to stop this grab.

I see SoJDC gloating about a 11 million profit on the sale of the 1st building. They got the site for nothing, Factor that in.

Andium is managed by a fine group of locals. Ian Gallichan, John Hamon, Carl Mavity, Dominic Caunce run a billion pound fixed asset business. 47 people run this big and complex social housing business. They do a great job for the taxpayer. It is grossly unfair to take pot shots at the salaries recently awarded by a board review.

Please deal with these attacks as Chief Minister and Planning Minister. Who is in charge at CLMH?

Otherwise I will galvanise the troops again and put a ring around Ann Court.

Best wishes,

Hi John,

tagged you in a post.

"WESTMINSTER BY THE SEA ??? In sharp contrast to the fawning over the Jersey Development Company by the Government and the local media, please spare a thought for Andium Homes, another wholly owned States trading company. Here was a States Department mercilessly looted and pillaged by successive Treasury Ministers. It had and still has around 4,800 units of accommodation, houses, flats and bedsits for those that need social housing. In it's worst days, its 23,000,000 annual rent was taken by Treasury and they were given back anything from 3-5 million to maintain thousands of properties. It was a mission impossible. Even now today, after the transformation from States Department to States trading company, it is still getting roadblocks in it's aim to eradicate the huge waiting lists for social housing. SOME PEOPLE LIVING LOCALLY CANNOT AFFORD TO RENT NOT TO MIND EVEN THE ABILITY TO BUY In the last two weeks, it has emerged that senior civil servants are eyeing the big Phillip Street site adjacent to the Arts Centre, the site of the old Ann Court housing complex as a flagship headquarter building for Jersey Government offices. So, poor Andium, having almost lost this site twice in recent times to other parties, having achieved planning permission in 2017 for Plans that will see Andium Homes build a total of 165 new homes - 130 one bedroom and 35 two bedroom units - as well as four shops on the Ann Court site that was approved unanimously by the Planning Committee. The redevelopment includes the pedestrianisation of the area outside the Arts' Centre, and 137 shopper car spaces on a semi-basement level. Now, Andium are used to getting a good kicking. There is an attitude in Government that if you have a successful local States owned company, mostly run by locally born people, then give give it a good hiding every year. Even better, attack them for some reason and distract attention from the plans of big government. So, I say to Sam Mezec, John Young, John Le Fondré, Susie Pinel, Tracey Le Brocq can we please give this company some encouragement and stop the attack dog politics? Please? The contrast with government attitude to another so called development company is astounding. So, to Susie Pinel, tell the "Westminster By The Sea" bods that have essentially taken over the Jersey Government to back off, and point out to them that Jersey is a small proud island that for hundreds of years, Islanders have been able to use Jersey people to make their own decisions. Tell the "Westminster Clique" that you will sign the approval loan for the Phillips Street development. Can you also give a little praise to the local team running Andium? Is that too much to ask? Otherwise, I might ask some of the 2,000 that helped me three years ago to come help me again. Can we put some of these "Westminster By The Sea" back on a ferry going north soon?"

Hi John,

commented on a post that you're tagged in.

"I believe that the strategy regarding Ann Court being put on hold is just a RED HERRING to create uproar from the public, of course ANN COURT must be for housing. I believe that the Westminster bunch want Grade A offices on the waterfront and that is their game plan.

Ann court will be given the go ahead and the Westminster bunch will be seen as the good guys

Only time will tell "

FYI - Steve Luce has lodged a proposition to proceed with the Ann Court development as housing.

We will need the updated info for number of housing units, timing, (and possible inclusion of 3rd sector requirements) fairly swiftly.

The debate is scheduled for 29 Jan, but we will ideally need the info by 7th Jan to be able to properly address this.

Can you let me know if this is achievable.

Thanks
