

Compulsory Basic Training (CBT) Application Form

CBT is required in Jersey before any provisional motorcycle licence holder can take to the road. The course comprises of the following five elements at of a cost of £109.76 and is offered on Saturdays or Sundays only.

Introduction instructing candidates on the aims of the training course and the importance of having the right equipment and clothing.

Practical on-site training will help candidates to familiarise themselves with their motorcycle, how it works, its controls and how to carry out basic machine checks.

Practical on-site riding is conducted in a safe, enclosed environment and is designed to instruct the candidate on how to handle, ride and fully control their machine in various simulated situations.

Practical on-road training is a comprehensive discussion about riding safely on the road to ensure that candidates are fully aware of the legal requirements, the rules of the road, and the need to ride defensively.

Practical on-road riding the candidate will be required to put into practice the skills that they have learned during the four previous elements. For safety, candidates are kept in contact with an instructor via radio headsets.

Once all five elements have been successfully completed, the candidate will receive a CBT certificate that validates their provisional licence, thus enabling them to ride on the road.

Before attending for CBT a candidate must have a roadworthy motorcycle, a provisional driving licence for the relevant group required and appropriate insurance cover. In addition, suitable clothing will be needed to complete the course, to include a motorcycle helmet (BSI or ECE approved), motorcycle gloves, a protective jacket, hardwearing trousers and appropriate footwear with ankle protection.
